

Candy and flowers? They are nice and delightful, but why don't you make your beloved something creative and special on such a special day. I'd like to introduce something exciting for you to make their heart go pitter patter.

Step 1: Switch on your computer and change the background picture and the arrangements of icons.

You can find some really creative pictures about love, and personalize it with your own words, such as “I can be myself when I’m with you”, “Your love gives me the feeling that the best is still ahead.” And you can also add the names and the pictures of you two. Then, another thing creative is to rearrange your icons on your desk in some creative shapes. It may be one heart, two hearts or other creative and other shapes of love you can think of. Your beloved will surely be surprised at the first sight of the screen. Then your goal has been achieved a half.

Step2: Make a short video for him/she.

First, it takes a long time to preparing for the video. You must have fun together in the past and take a lot of pictures. Now, let's make a short video with these pictures (digital pictures certainly). Just use some easy-handling tool, such as movie maker or some other software, to put the pictures together. The most important is to add your special words to those pictures. It may be like some short diaries attached to the pictures, in which you can describe what you were doing and how you felt about this. If you want it to be more impressive, you can record your words or sing a song which goes with the pictures.

Of course, you can do other creative things on the computer, including cleaning junk files, removing virus and keylogger software, and etc, which would also make the operating smoother. All you need is devotion, imagination, and patience. When it's time, you can just say:

" Honey, would you like to switch the computer for me?"
